safety. 113 school age children were given the opportunity to attend after school and/or summer programs again giving the parents peace of mind that their children were being cared for in a safe and nurturing environment.
Over 5,446 children ages birth-to-five received a free book in the mail monthly to encourage reading and ensure kindergarten readiness. 82% of the parents reported that due to this program, their child(ren) is excited about reading and is better prepared for kindergarten because of receiving these books. 49 low income children who read at least one year below grade level have had access to a dedicated, trained tutor to help them become more proficient readers.
40 young adults between the ages of 17-21 had a place to live, received support in looking for a job, continued their education, were taught everyday life skills such as cooking, budgeting, and decision-making, and thus increased their feeling of self-worth. These teens are primarily children that have aged out of the foster care system and if not for this program would be homeless.
